BODY IS FOUND HANGING TO BEAM

Mrs. Mary Alice Reeves, Age Sixty-Eight, Widow of Late Captain J. B. Reeve, Commits Suicide.

DISCOVERED LATE YESTERDAY

Her Threats Recently to Take Her Life Not Thought Dangerous—Left Alone in Afternoon.

The dead body of Mrs. Mary Alice Reeve, widow of the late J. B. Reeve, was found suspended from a beam in the attic at her home in North Main street, yesterday afternoon between four and five o'clock. The body was found by Thomas Overton, colored, who had been employed at the Reeve home for many years.

The suicide of Mrs. Reeve came as a surprise to her many friends, although she had threatened to kill herself many times. Following the death of her husband November 18, 1911, Mrs. Reeve's mind became affected through grief over his death and for a time she was in a sanatorium in Oxford. She had a horror for that place and seemed to be laboring under the impression that she would be returned there.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Reeve sent Overton on an errand and was left alone in the house. A nurse has been with her ever since her return from Oxford, but yesterday the nurse was in Indianapolis to undergo an operation for the removal of her tonsils. Mr. Overton returned to the house shortly after four o'clock and seeing nothing of Mrs. Reeve instituted a search. He went to the attic but could not find her. He started to leave and then decided to look further. He struck a match and found the body hanging from the beam.

Mrs. Reeve had probably been dead some time when found. She used a small rope and jumped from a step-ladder. She was off the floor a distance of four feet.

Mrs. Reeve was widely known and her untimely end was very pathetic. Mrs. Reeve was sixty-eight years old and was a daughter of the late John and Matilda Dixon. She had lived all her life in Rushville and was married December 21, 1865 to Mr. Reeve. Mr. Reeve for many years was cashier of the Rushville National bank. Mrs. Reeve was a devoted member of the St. Paul's Methodist church.

Mrs. Reeve had threatened to take her life a number of times but her friends did not believe she was in earnest. Friends and relatives do not hold Mr. Overton or the nurse responsible in any way for her death as they did not believe Mrs. Reeve would ever carry out her threats. For the past year or so Mrs. Reeve had appeared more rational and it was believed she would in time completely recover.

Mrs. Reeve is survived by one son, Earl Reeve of Chicago. A daughter, Nellie, died in infancy. The funeral arrangements have not been completed but will be held Sunday some time. The exact hour will not be known until the son's arrival from Chicago.

TRAIN DELAYED.

South bound Big Four passenger train due here at 8:03 o'clock was delayed for over an hour this morning between Farmers and Henderson when a rod was jammed through the grate of the fire box. The grate fell out making it impossible to get a fire in the engine. Another engine was sent from Anderson. Several of the passengers were brought on to this city in automobiles.

WILL NEWBOLD GETS PLUM

Tells Friends Today he Received State Appointment Dec. 28.

Will L. Newbold an attorney of this city, and formerly one of the owners of the local Democratic paper, has been appointed an insurance examiner by Dale J. Crittenger, auditor of state. Mr. Newbold received the appointment December 28, but was too modest to let the fact become known until today when he returned from Fort Wayne where he has been engaged in his official position. The insurance department of the state is under the auditor of state. Crittenger and Newbold have long been friends and the appointment came because of this as well as political reasons.

FIRE PUT OUT WITH SMALL LOSS OF $50

Blaze Breaks Out in Eaves on East Side of I. & C. General Offices Here Today.

IRON PIPE IS OVERHEATED

A fire loss of probably $50 resulted at the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company's general offices this morning when the eaves on the east side of the building caught fire from the chimney of the furnace. When found the building was in flames next to the roof where the iron chimney leads through the eaves. Quick action by the fire department prevented a greater loss.

The iron chimney from the furnace leads from the basement up on the outside of the building and as it nears the roof goes through the eaves. The pipe became overheated and fired the roof. The fire was a stubborn one to fight as it got it under the roof and the slate roof made it exceptionally hard to get to the blaze. Very little water was thrown and Sam Finney with a chemical tank on the roof soon had the fire under control. The blaze was discovered about eight-thirty o'clock.

TO CONDUCT PRIZE ESSAY EVENT AGAIN

Daughters of American Revolution Will Award $26 in Prizes for Best Historical Papers

SOME CHANGES THIS YEAR

The Daughters of the American Revolution will again conduct a prize essay contest in the history classes of the public schools. The members were so well pleased with the support of the superintendent, teachers and pupils of the history classes in the contest last year that it was again decided to hold the event.

A slightly different arrangement will be used this year. The pupils will write on some historical subject assigned by the teacher, but the pupils will not sign any names to the essays and they will be graded by disinterested people. In this manner the contest will be conducted in a fair manner, giving everyone an equal chance. A committee from the D. A. R. visited several history classes yesterday and the pupils are enthusiastic over the proposition.

A total of $26 in prizes will be divided for the best essays and the awards will be made about April 1. The D. A. R. is assisted in the movement by the Sons of the American Revolution.

WATSON TAKES "NOMINATION"

Rushville Man "Brings Down House" After Complimentary Speech by Commercial Club Head.

AT CONNERSVILLE BANQUET

Over 300 Men Are Seated and 95 Are Turned Away and Club Pays Freight—Elaborate Program.

James E. Watson of this city literally "took down the house" at the Connersville Commercial Club banquet last night when he "accepted the nomination for president." Chances are that if the election had been held right there, it would have been almost unanimous.

When E. P. Hawkins, president of the Commercial Club, introduced Mr. Watson, the chief speaker of the evening, he said it was the greatest pleasure of his life.

"Jim Watson is the best orator in the United States and he ought to be president of the United States," said Mr. Hawkins. "The next time I introduce him I hope he is president of the United States."

When Mr. Watson arose to speak thunderous applause greeted him. He was forced to pause for a few minutes until the demonstration subsided.

"Ned Hawkins is my friend," observed Mr. Watson. "I like to have my friends lie about me because my enemies always lie against me."

Then there was a pause. If a pin had dropped, undoubtedly everybody in the banquet room would have heard it.

Turning and bowing to the toastmaster with a gracious smile, Mr. Watson said: "I accept the nomination."

The was the turn of affairs that brought a bigger demonstration to the Rushville man than that which was the signal of his appearance.

"That speech was worth the price of one year's dues alone," shouted a man named Carter, who arose and made that remark when Mr. Watson had concluded.

"Is Carter paid up?" asked President Hawkins soberly.

The banquet was the occasion of the celebration of the erection in Connersville recently of a new C. H. & D. depot. Judge Rufus B. Smith of Cincinnati, co-receiver with Judson Harmon, of the C. H. & D., was present and made a short talk and there were also representatives of the Big Four and L. E. & W. railroads and the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company.

By the exact count, there were just three hundred and twenty-nine men jammed into the immense banquet hall. Ninety-five others came late and wanted to be fed. So they were taken to a Connersville restaurant and later came back to the banquet to hear the program.

The turkey was passed at seven o'clock and from that time until eleven o'clock there was one thing after another to entertain the banqueters. Besides the two speakers, there was a Connersville quartet, two soloists, who, by the way, are not unknown to Rushville people—Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Spencer of Indianapolis—an orchestra and an impersonator, Sidney Landon, who was here at the chautauqua a few years ago. Besides there was an exhibition of pool and billiards in the club rooms preceding the banquet.

Everybody went free. The Connersville Commercial club paid the freight. As a host the club is right alongside the best. Everybody was made to feel at home. There were

PLAN A BIGGER EVENT FOR 1916

Uniform Rank K. of P. Companies Prepare to Hold Regimental Inspection and Installation

NEWCASTLE NAMED AS PLACE

Annual Joint Event Here Thursday Night Attended by Sixty—Pig Roast Enjoyable Feature

Plans were formulated here last night at the joint inspection and installation of officers of Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias companies of this city and Newcastle, to hold a regimental inspection and installation of officers at Newcastle next year. As there are ten companies in the regiment, it will be seen that the boosters of the project have quite a task mapped out for themselves, but they expect to bring it to pass.

Ivy Company No. 35 of this city last night was host at the annual inspection and installation of the new officers of Ivy company and the Newcastle company. A pig roast was scheduled for six-thirty o'clock, but did not get under way until after eight o'clock because the Newcastle delegation was delayed.

Seventeen members came down from Newcastle in four automobiles. The delay in arriving was due to trouble with three of the machines. One of them finally had to be abandoned at Dunreith and another automobile was rented to bring the crowd on here. The delegations expected from Knightstown and Connersville did not show up.

Sixty Knights sat down to the pig roast. Samuel L. Trabue, adjutant general on the staff of the newly elected major general commanding the Uniform Rank of United States and Canada, acted as toastmaster. Colonel Phelps, of Newcastle, commander of the third regiment, responded to a toast. G. P. Hunt, the retiring captain of Ivy company, and J. K. Jameson, the new captain, both made short talks. Several of the visitors also responded briefly to toasts.

Colonel Phelps said that the inspection was very creditable when the fact is taken into consideration that it is held only once a year. Members of the Newcastle company brought along a box of roses, for which their city is famed, as a gift to the members of Ivy company.

Will Morgan, who gave the pig and made possible the excellent meal, was extended a hearty vote of thanks for his part and the spirit in which he gave it, and he was pronounced a good fellow by all of his fellow members of Ivy company as well as by the visiting members who became acquainted with him.

New officers installed by Ivy company were as follows: J. K. Jameson, captain; Bert Conde, first lieutenant; Lote Carter, second lieutenant; Fred R. Beale, left guard; George Coons, right guard; Walter Peters, recorder; Floyd Hogsett, treasurer.

INDICTED BY GRAND JURY.

Seth Hardin, of Dunreith, has been indicted by the Henry county grand jury on two counts of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquors and with being intoxicated. He was released on $75 bond.

Miss Pet Meredith, a teacher in the Graham school, is ill at her home in North Morgan street, suffering from an attack of acute indigestion. Mrs. Roy Mayse is substituting for her at school.

PASS RESOLUTION TODAY

Both Legislative Branches Want Quarantine to be Modified.

(By United Press.) Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—Both branches of the legislature today rushed through a joint resolution calling upon the federal authorities to modify the existing foot and mouth quarantine in Indiana. The resolution asked that the quarantine be restricted to areas to within five miles of the infected district. Representative Maurice Douglass, who introduced the resolution, declared that stock raisers were suffering great and needless loss as the result of the quarantine which limits their market to Indianapolis. Both branches adjourned until Monday at 2 p. m.

DIES TODAY AT THE HOME OF DAUGHTER

Mrs. Nancy J. McDonald, Age 79 Years, Expires Following Second Stroke of Paralysis.

SURVIVED BY NINE CHILDREN

Mrs. Nancy Jane McDonald, 79 years old, widow of the late James McDonald, died this afternoon shortly before two o'clock, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Christian Fox, corner of First and Pearl streets. Mrs. McDonald suffered a second stroke of paralysis Monday, and since that time her death had been expected. She suffered the first stroke last June. She would have been eighty years old March 15.

Mrs. McDonald was born and reared in Rush county and lived here all her life with the exception of three years spent in Illinois. Since the death of her husband two years ago she had lived with her daughter Mrs. Fox. Besides Mrs. Fox she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Jesse Hinton, Hyldreth McDonald, George, Jerry, Frank, Milburn and John McDonald. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

NEW COMPLICATION SEEN

Carranza Annuls Land Concessions Issued Since December 1, 1886.

(By United Press.)

Galveston, Texas, Jan. 8.—Confirmation of the latest international complication in the Mexican situation was received here this afternoon in a cablegram from Vera Cruz to Mexican Consul Burns. General Carranza was officially stated to have annulled all concessions of land, forests and water granted in Mexico since December 1, 1886, promising to return this wealth to the township. Great foreign oil wells and mining interests are affected.

John M. Eaton has filed an account suit against Elizabeth Beckner demanding $150.

Margaret Fritch has filed a claim against the estate of Joe Lyons, deceased demanding $112.50. The suit is against Benjamin F. Miller, administrator.

William H. Fee, of Clarksburg, has filed suit for damages in Decatur circuit court, against James Lawson, alleging that his automobile was damaged in a collision with the machine driven by Lawson. He alleges carelessness on the part of Lawson. The demand is $250.

PEOPLE THROG TO GREET WILSON

Thomas Taggart Member of Committee Which Escorts President From Station This Afternoon.

WAS TO SPEAK AT 3 O'CLOCK

At Richmond President Says Nation is Heading What is None of its Business—Europe.

(By United Press.) Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—Half playfully, half earnestly President Wilson told three thousand people at Richmond, Ind., this afternoon that this nation is heading what "is none of your business"—Europe's affairs. In place of this he counseled serious deliberation of America's business, both its future and past.

The nation, he said, must maintain its equilibrium; it must face, too, the problem of the future now that the administration has attempted to break the shackles on American business.

His speech at Richmond was preliminary to the one which he was to deliver here this afternoon at three o'clock.

The president was greeted by an immense throng at the station and was ushered through the crowd by a reception committee consisting of Senator Kern, Governor Ralston and National Committeeman Thomas Taggart and others.

TO REVIEW ACHIEVEMENTS.

(By United Press.) Dennison, Ohio, Jan. 8.—Speeding westward enroute to Indianapolis where this afternoon he is expected to deliver a highly significant political speech, President Wilson passed through here this morning.

The president's address as guest of the Indiana Democratic club's "Jackson Day" celebration will be a review of Democratic achievements and an answer to the critics of the administration and possibly will sound the opening guns of the 1916 political campaign.

The president will carefully avoid questions of war and neutrality in his address.

The president was up early this morning feeling fit. A great deal of interest was shown at the station but the president did not appear before the crowds that gathered.

ROBERTS NOT ON TRAIN.

(By United Press.) Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—Positive word was received here today that Donn M. Roberts, mayor of Terre Haute who was indicted in federal court for conspiracy, was not on the president's train when it left Washington last night. Roberts boarded the 6:15 train while the president's train left at 7:10.

An Advertisement That Failed

In New York City millions use the street cars and a large proportion ride on transfers.

Some one once conceived the idea of printing a daily advertisement on each transfer.

The privilege was sold to a large advertiser for a great sum of money.

It was one of the biggest advertising failures ever recorded. The returns from the advertising were almost nothing.

The store finds by spending the same amount of money in the newspapers it can increase its business from year to year at a most satisfactory ratio.

WHEAT IS STILL GOING UP

Prices Continue to Set New Records on Chicago Market.

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Jan. 8.—At upon wheat was quoted at $1.40 for May, and $1.26 for July. At this time there was no indication of any break. On the other hand buyers were still in the majority. At one o'clock May wheat had gone to $1.41 and July to $1.26 7/8. May opened at $1.39½, or 1 and one eight cents higher yesterday's close. A wave of buying enthusiasm following reports of immense cash sales is given as the reason for the continued rise which makes the third high price record for the year. Other grain followed in the wake of wheat.

Amusements

Tonight, the Gem will show King Baggot in "The Turn in the Tide." It is one of those simple human dramas, with a true-to-life hero, a genuine villain and a heroine who will remind you of the girl you knew back in the old days. King Baggott plays the role of the hero. Arline Pretty, in the part of the heroine, is said to be as pretty as one could wish. It is a tale of the sea-coast and of fisher people. You see the fisher boy, in his manly art, win the heart of the girl. And when the boy is temporarily separated from the girl, as the result of another villain, you sympathize. But when the big scene arrives—when our hero returns, the successful man, in time to rescue his old sweetheart from the pounding sea, the thrills which accompanies the spectacular feat is said to be great. Louise Fazenda and William Franey are seen in "When Their Wives Joined the Regiment." Another of the thrilling episodes of "The Trey O'Hearts" will be shown tomorrow night.

The Mystic offers a fine program tonight showing a two reel Essanay drama "What Soever a Woman Soweth" for the first picture. Gerda Holmes and Richard Travers are featured. She refuses to marry a man whose father is a thief. After many years her own son becomes a thief and the climax is said to be a thriller. The other is the sixth of "The Beloved Adventurer" series. Arthur Johnson and Lottis Briscoe are featured. Saturday night the two reel Vitagraph drama "Within an Ace" with Dorothy Kelley and James Morrison will be shown.

The Princess will show the four reel feature "One Wonderful Night" for the program tonight. Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are featured. It is said to be a story full of action, beautiful scenes and thrilling situations. It is taken from the prize story of the same name and is said to be a very remarkable and exceptional picture. Tomorrow night the two reel feature "Playing With Fire" will be shown.

On Monday and Tuesday evening, Jan. 11-12, the great English actress, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, in her brilliant success "Pygmalion" is to be the attraction at English's opera house. No other actress who has ever come to us from abroad has had a greater number of successes to her credit than Mrs. Campbell and it is said by all critics who have seen the new Shaw play that never has she been given greater opportunity for the display of her wonderful talent than in this production.

"The Quaker Girl" is to be seen at English's opera house, Indianapolis, Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 13 and 14, and to lovers of good musical comedy, this announcement will be specially pleasing, for "The Quaker Girl" is full of high-class music, numerous song hits, and bright, witty lines. The producers have spared no expense in giving this musical comedy a splendid setting, both as to scenic equipment and costumes. A clever cast of principles has been chosen to interpret the roles and a good singing and dancing chorus complete and outfit, which assures the theater-goers of a satisfying evening's entertainment.

Margaret Anglin, America's foremost actress, is to be the attraction at English's opera house, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 15 and 16, with matinees Saturday. Miss Anglin will be seen in her splendid revival-production of "Lady Windemere's Fan" which ran for three months in New York last season. Although in her stage career Miss Anglin has demonstrated her ability to handle almost any role it is as an emotional actress that she is at her best and thus, the role of Mrs. Erylne is particularly suited to this charming actress. She brings with her a brilliant company of players—the same company that helped to make her revival of the Oscar Wilde comedy drama a success for three months in New York.

PROMINENT MAN AT SHORT COURSE

Dr. L. H. Bailey of Cornell, Chairman of Country Life Commission, to Discuss Agriculture.

IS FOR BEST IN COUNTRY LIFE

Indiana people will have an opportunity to hear at Purdue Farmers' Short Course, Dr. L. H. Bailey of Cornell University, New York. Dr. Bailey is the leading agricultural educator of the city. He served as Chairman of the Country Life Commission appointed by President Roosevelt. He has written more agricultural books than any other man, among which is the noted Cyclopedia of American Agriculture. Dr. Bailey stands for the best in agriculture and country life and his work at Purdue should mean much to every one attending the Short Course. Tuesday, Jan. 12th, Dr. Bailey will speak from 4 to 5 p. m. on "The Significance of Agricultural work in the Common Schools." Tuesday evening, on "The Country Village and Farming Community." Everyone interested in agricultural advancement should arrange to hear Dr. Bailey.

Mrs. Harriett Sparks, mother of Judge Will M. Sparks and Dr. Frank Sparks, is critically ill at the home of Dr. Sparks in North Main street.

Henry McGuire, assistant cashier of the Rushville National bank, suffered a severe attack of acute indigestion at the bank this morning, which gave rise to the report that he had dropped dead. Mr. McGuire soon recovered, however, and was back on duty at the bank.

PROMINENT MEN TO MAKE TALKS

Indiana Retail Merchant Association Announces Speakers For Fifteenth Convention.

H. A. WHEELER ONE SPEAKER

One Afternoon During Meeting Retailers Will Visit the Legislature in a Body.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—The most interesting and the strongest program in the history of the Indiana Retail Merchants Association has been arranged for the 15th Annual Convention in Indianapolis, the 19-20-21 of January, according to announcement today.

The prominent men on the program are H. A. Wheeler, of Chicago, Joe Mitchell Chapple of Boston, E. St. Elmo Lewis of Jamestown, N. Y., John A. Green of Cleveland and George E. Green of Chicago.

Mr. Wheeler is Vice-President of the Union Trust Company, Chicago and past president of Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He was one of the first selected for a place on the Federal Reserve Board. He will talk on the present banking system.

E. St. Elmo Lewis was formerly advertising and sales manager of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company and is now Vice-president and General Manager of the Art Metal Construction Company. He is one of the best posted men in business efficiency in this country.

Mr. Chapple is editor of the National Magazine and has the distinction, it is said, of knowing more prominent people in all parts of the world than any other man in America. John A. Green is the secretary of the National Grocers & Butchers Association and George E. Green is western representative of the Shredded Wheat Biscuit company.

The last afternoon of the convention will adjourn and visit the state house in a body.

JACKSON ARRESTED.

David M. Jackson, of Knightstown, was arrested yesterday by the sheriff of Henry county on an indictment for a statutory offense. His home was raided about a year ago and he spent a number of days in jail. In the present charge he is alleged to have been living with a woman not his wife.

Rushville People Are Shown the Way Out.

Kidney diseases are very dangerous. They come on silently, gain ground rapidly, and cause thousands of deaths that could have been prevented by proper treatment in the beginning. Nature gives early warnings of kidney disease—backache, twinges of pain when stooping or lifting, headaches and urinary disorders. If these symptoms are unheeded, there is grave danger of dropsy or possible Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills have earned a reputation for their effectiveness in kidney troubles, and are known and recommended the world over. Rushville readers should find convincing proof in the following statement. It's from a citizen of this locality.

J. F. Champion, 618 West Fifth street, Rushville, says: "I suffered a great deal from backache and kidney weakness. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a supply from Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. They gave me relief. I think highly of Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to confirm what one of my family said about them some years ago."

As for Rose and Alan—heaven alone knew what had happened to them. So Barcus set himself to find out whatever Providence knew without more delay. The racing car was barely out of sight when he sprang from the sheltering trees and, Judith at his heels, pelted headlong down the slope to the spot where the others had vanished.

To find them not only alive but practically unscathed affected that loyal soul almost to tears.

But when congratulations had been mutually exchanged, there fell an awkward pause. The eyes of the four sought one another's ruefully, each pair quick with the unuttered but inexorable inquiry: What next?

In the outcome, it was Mr. Barcus who advanced the suggestion which was adopted—though this was its reception more through lack of a better than for any actual appeal intrinsic in the proposition.

"When we broke down, I saw," he ventured, with a backward jerk of his thumb to indicate the road, "a canyon branching off from this one about a quarter of a mile over yonder. If it's all the same to you people, we might stroll round that way and see what its natural attractions may be—if any. But it's sure a mighty poor sort of a canyon that doesn't lead anywhere—and nothing could possibly be more fatiguing to our mercurial and restless tempers than to squat down here and fold our hands in our laps and wait for something to turn up—and anyway we can't be worse off than we are—and—"

"Sufficient!" Mr. Law interrupted with a bleak smile.

Crooking a deferential arm, Barcus offered it to Judith.

"Everything is lovely in the formal garden," he insisted—"so sweetly romantic. Are you game for an idle saunter, just to while the idle hours away?"

The woman found spirit enough for a wan smile as she tucked her hand gratefully beneath his arm.

"You're the cheerfulest soul I ever met," she said demurely. "What I'm going to do without you when—if ever—we get out of this awful business, goodness only knows."

"Let's talk of something else," he suggested hastily.

"Unless, of course," she pursued with unbroken gravity, "I marry you."

"Heaven," the young man prayed fervently, "forfeit!"

"That is hardly gallant—"

"I mean—heaven forfeit that you should throw yourself away!"

"Humph!" she mused. "Perhaps you're right."

Their banter was not without a subtle object, namely, to reassure the girl who followed, supported by her lover's arm.

In the course of the last 24 hours Rose's jealousy of her sister's newfound friendliness with Alan had become acutely evident. The least courtesy which circumstances now and again demanded that he show Judith or seem a boor, was enough to cloud the countenance of Alan's betrothed.

Nor, indeed, was Rose altogether destitute of plausible excuse for this feeling. It was undeniable that between Alan and Judith a bond of sympathy had grown out of the trials and hardships they had of late suffered in common. It was undeniable—but even in his most private thoughts Alan denied it fiercely. Judith, on the other hand, not only acknowledged it freely to herself, but secretly derived a strangely sweet and poignant pleasure from the knowledge that she loved so madly and hopelessly.

That her love was hopeless she knew but too well. Even though Alan might not be altogether indifferent to her, after all that had passed between them, his loyalty to Rose was unshakable. And not for worlds would Rose's rival have had it otherwise. She could not have loved him as she did had he not been so unmovably true. As it was, since she could not hope her love might be returned, she was content to love and to promise herself that, if opportunity ever offered, she would not prove unready to sacrifice herself for her love.

And at times she caught herself praying that such opportunity would be accorded her, and quickly, and that the sacrifice it should demand would be complete.

Now prayers are sometimes answered when the boon craved is good for the soul.

Slowly and painfully these four toiled along an obscure trail that followed the windings of the little river, until a branch struck into the main stream and so discovered to them yet another trail leading into the westward canyon.

Then again slowly and painfully they plodded on following blindly another trail blazed by Fates as blind as they.

Above them, on the road they had abandoned, the crimson racer doubled back to the point where it had passed Judith and Barcus; its occupants descended, explored, and came presently upon the trail of the fugitives.

Bloodhounds could not have set-led down upon a scent with more good will and eagerness than Mr. Marrophat and his faithful aide.

The sun was high and blazing above the canyon when the pursuit came within rifle shot of the chase.

A spiteful shot roused the quartet from a pause of lethargic dismay due to tardy appreciation of the fact that they had penetrated witlessly almost to the end of a blind alley.

A hasty council of war armed Alan with Judith's revolver and posted him behind a boulder commanding the approaches to the chasm. The weapon, a powerful .45, had a range sufficient to numb the impetuosity of the assassins and keep them under cover and out of sight of the desperate essays the fugitives were making to compass an escape.

For in the shed behind an abandoned log cabin—souvernir, no doubt, of some forgotten prospector—Barcus had unearthed a length of stout hempen rope.

With the aid of a rusty shovel he had hacked this into two equal lengths. One of these lengths he proceeded to make fast around his own waist, then around Rose's. The other he left to be similarly employed by Alan and Judith. For it was agreed that they must climb, and while the cliff offered no problem to daunt a mountain climber of any pretensions, it was considered best that the fugitives should be hitched up in pairs against any possibility of a slip. The pairing had been determined by the fact that Barcus boasted some slight experience in mountaineering, while Rose was plainly the most exhausted of the two women, the least able to help herself in an emergency.

He had worked his cautious way, with the girl in tow, to a point midway up the face of the cliff, following a long diagonal that provided the easiest climbing, when Alan stole back to Judith and reported that, on the evidence of observation and belief, he was convinced that the pursuit had turned back—perhaps for want of ammunition, perhaps to execute some less hazardous attempt upon the lives of the fugitives.

Without delay, then, he made the free end of the rope fast around his own waist, and, following the way Barcus had chosen, began the ascent.

Two-thirds of the climb had been accomplished, and Rose and Barcus had arrived in safety at the top, before the temptation to look down proved irresistible.

Immediately beneath his heels the face of the cliff was deeply hollowed out, leaving a drop of 50 feet to a shelving ledge of shale as steep as a roof, whose eaves—perhaps another fifty feet below—jutted out over another fall of a hundred feet.

Alan shuddered and swallowed hard before resuming the ascent.

Another 20 feet brought him to a ledge quite six feet wide, offering a broad and easy path to the summit. He gained this with a prayer of heartfelt relief and was on the point of rising to his feet when a cry of horror from Barcus and a scream of terror from Rose, watching over the upper edge, warned him barely in time to enable him to snatch at and grasp a knob of rock before Judith's weight tautened the rope between them and jerked Alan's legs from under him.

His feet and legs kicked the empty air beyond the lip of the ledge, he lay face downward, clutching desperately the knob of rock, praying that it might not come away in his grasp, that his grasp might hold, that Barcus might arrive in time to save them both. The rope was cutting into his waist like a dull knife. The drag of Judith's body was frightful. He could feel her swinging like a pendulum at the end of its 30 feet, and could imagine but too vividly what would happen if the rope should prove faulty.

The fall of 20 feet to the shale roof was nothing. What would follow would, however, spell death. The impact of her body would set the shale in motion, like an avalanche—and beyond the eaves was only emptiness and the boulder-strewn bed of the chasm, a hundred feet below!

The sweat poured from his face like rain. His eyes started in their sockets, the blood drummed in his ears with a roar resembling distant thunder. His fingers grew numb, his throat dry.

He felt that he could not hold on another instant when, abruptly, that torture was no more. The rope had been relieved of its burden. He heard a scream from below echoed by one from above, then the thump of Judith's body falling on the shale, then the slithering rumble of the landslide gathering momentum.

Barcus, at length arrived, assisted him to a place of security. Spent and faint and sick with horror, he lay prone and shuddering.

Only the assurance of Barcus that Judith had somehow escaped being precipitated over the eaves of the shale roof roused him and gave him nerve enough to resume the climb.

It was true, when he found courage to look and see for himself; she lay within three yards of the brink su-pine, her face uplifted to the sun, unstirring; she dared not stir; a single movement was calculated to set the shale bed again in motion.

Painfully he realized that if, as Barcus asserted, she had deliberately cut the rope herself, Judith had offered up her life to spare his own.

CHAPTER L.

Retribution.

And yet the very consciousness of the girl's danger was all the stimulant that Alan needed to recall him to himself.

Once arrived with Barcus at the top of the cliff, he lost no time in setting about preparations to effect her rescue.

In this business Fortune smiled upon him, as it were, by predisposition.

A broad roadway ran along the top of the precipice, turning off at a little distance to the right, to descend the mountainside. And just beyond this turning Providence had chosen to locate the camp of a hydraulic mining outfit.

Alan's appearance at the top, in fact, was coincident with the arrival at that point of half a dozen excited miners; and he had no more than voiced his demands than three of their number were hastening back to the camp to procure rope and more hands.

Within five minutes Alan, against the protests of Rose and Barcus, was being lowered over the edge and down to the shale roof on which he landed at a spot far to one side of Judith, to escape all danger of sending a second landslide down upon her.

Picking his way carefully down to the very brink, Alan edged along this, more than once saved a fall to death only by the rope, until he stood immediately below Judith.

Then pausing, he instructed her carefully, tossed the end of the rope into her hands, and when she had wound it twice round her arm, crept up to her side and helped her make it fast about her body.

His signal to the miners that all was well elicited prompt response. There was a giddy interval in which the two swung perilously between heaven and earth. Then they stood once more in safety.

Supported by sympathetic hands, the quartet staggered into camp, their story, as condensed by Barcus and breathlessly confirmed by Alan, already winning them enthusiastic champions.

And this was very well for them. For they had no more than seated themselves and begun to appreciate what perils they had escaped, when the rumble of a motor car sounded beyond the shoulder of the hill.

Startled by this alarm once more into full command of his flagging faculties, Alan rose and stumbled out into the roadway, taking cognizance of such facilities for defense as the camp afforded and issuing instructions with a voice vibrant with fear, not for his own safety, but for the safety of those whom he loved.

Not far from the point where the road swung from the cliff to thread the camp the hydraulic nozzle was in action, its terrific force of water melting the mountainside away ton by ton. Toward this Barcus ran at top speed, gaining the man in charge of the nozzle just as the car swung round the bend.

Pausing only long enough to make certain that there could be no mistake—and having this certainty made doubly sure by Jimmy's action in rising from his seat and firing over the windshield pointblank at Alan as this last stood waiting in the roadway—Barcus and the miner swung the nozzle round until it bore directly on the car.

The power of its stream was such that the car was checked instantly in its tracks; and before the water could have been shut off or the stream diverted, the machine was driven back to the very lip of the cliff and over it completely, taking with it those twain upon whose efforts all the hopes of Seneca Trine of late had been centered.

A death that was merciful, in that it was instantaneous, awaited them at the foot of the cliff.

Spinal Column, Where the Cause of Disease is Located

CHIROPRACTIC

(KI-BO-FRAC-TIC)

The scientific method of removing the cause of all disease by adjusting to the normal position the misplaced (subluxated) vertebrae of the spinal column. The subluxated vertebra cause pressure on the Great Trunk Nerves which emanate between them, thus shutting off the transmission of vital current from the brain to some organ or part of the body to which they lead, leaving it in a weakened condition, subject to disease, causing over 95 per cent of all sickness and suffering known to mankind. Chiropractic adjustments remove the pressure (the cause of disease), restores the vital energy and health returns. I use the hands only. I ask no questions; simply analyze the spine and tell you every place you are affected.

Attendance at Church of Representative Men More Powerful Than Sermons
MEN should GO TO CHURCH.
What is the matter with our men? They are quick to proclaim their faith in God. They will strongly resent the intimation that they are nonbelievers. Yet when they are asked why they don't attend church they are ever ready with an excuse. If the leading men in this community, one and all, would start right now to attend church regularly their example would be all powerful. Their continued attendance would be more effective than a dozen sermons.

IT IS NO EXAGGERATION TO SAY THAT 75 PER CENT OF THE REGULAR CHURCHGOERS TODAY ARE WOMEN. A HUSBAND WILL TAKE PRIDE IN HIS WIFE GOING TO CHURCH. IN FACT, HE WILL ENCOURAGE ALL HER CHURCH ACTIVITIES. IT IS RIGHT THAT HE SHOULD. IT IS ALSO RIGHT, AND ONLY JUST, TOO, THAT HE SHOULD BE SEEN IN CHURCH. SURELY THERE IS NOTHING THAT HE NEED FEAR IN THE HOUSE OF WORSHIP. SOME ARE QUICK TO CRITICISE THE PREACHER. IT WILL BE SAID THAT HIS SERMONS ARE DRY. AGAIN IT WILL BE SAID THAT HE IS SENSATIONAL IN HIS METHODS. THE READING OF THE GOSPEL OF THE DAY, THE WORD OF GOD, IS NEVER DRY. NEITHER IS IT SENSATIONAL.

It is true that we live in a rapid fire age. It is true that minutes count. It is true that the calls of business and social activities are pressing. But no man is too busy, none so much in demand but that he can arrange to spend a small part of Sunday in church. There isn't a man who attends church but feels better after the service. CHURCHGOING IS UPLIFTING. It takes our mind off the fleeting things of this world. CHURCHGOING is not far removed from the sublime.

GO TO CHURCH next Sunday!
GO TO CHURCH the following Sunday!
GO TO CHURCH every Sunday!

PROSPECTS ARE SIZED UP TODAY

During the Lull Today Indiana Law-makers Take Stock of What is to Come in Next 59 Days.

REVIEW OF PROPOSED BILLS

Highway Legislation, Flood Prevention and Amendments Stand Out as Most Important.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—During the brief breathing space awarded the members of the 1915 assembly today before the avalanche of bills descends, the lawmakers took the opportunity to "size up" the prospects of the coming fifty-nine days. Of whatever political faith, they were of the opinion that if important measures prepared for them are enacted, the present legislature will be a notable one in point of achievement, whether commendable or otherwise.

Of the big issues awaiting consideration, but not yet formally before either house, the Stotsenberg amendments and flood prevention legislation, together with bills proposed by the state highway commission, promise at the outset to be of

URIC ACID POISON UNDERMINES HEALTH

Rheuma Drives it From the System and Eliminates Rheumatism.

Even since Rheuma has been sold in this vicinity the sale of this marvelous rheumatism remedy has been steadily on the increase. This is due to the fact that Rheuma is guaranteed to eliminate rheumatism or money back.

It is a quick acting remedy, too. You do not have to wait a long time for results. Rheuma starts at once to act on the kidneys, liver, bowels and blood, and before 24 hours the poisonous uric acid, the chief cause of rheumatism, has begun to pass out of the body through the regular channels. It is also good for gout and neuralgia.

One 50-cent bottle will prove to any rheumatic sufferer that Rheuma surely will cure rheumatism. Sold by Johnson's Drug Store, and all druggists.

most tremendous importance. They probably will rival the attention given two years ago to the public service commission bill. There are numerous other important measures such as lobby legislation; drainage of the Kankakee district; the abatement, or "red light district" bill; registration; primary bills workman compensation and others to round out the session.

Present indications are that there will be a big fight over certain of the Stotsenberg amendments—they are the same which were "lost" last summer to all save United Press papers. There already is a clear-cut issue between Governor Ralston and the women of the Legislative Council. The women term No. 2 "insult to Indiana women" while the Governor says it would be wise legislation, preventing "migratory individuals" from voting. Those who want a constitutional convention may "come back" after the rather disheartening defeat of the recent election and oppose most of these amendments.

To quote an attache of the Statehouse, "there are 150 different ideas on road legislation." The state highway commission appointed by the Governor to investigate and report on road conditions and road laws of Indiana has visited every district, and has been followed everywhere by scores of objections, suggestions, resolutions and the like by "road experts" who will listen to only one kind of road legislation—their kind. The result, it is expected, will be a rather sturdy fight. The Governor has the report of the highway commission and paid in his message it called for the establishment of a state department of roads with a board consisting of the head of the school of civil engineering in Purdue, the state geologist and a third selected by the Governor, all to serve without salary. They would employ a qualified highway civil engineer with a salary not to exceed $4,000. The expenses of the board would be taken from the state automobile fund.

Flood control has been a crying need in Indiana ever since the floods of 1913 destroyed property worth approximately $25,000,000. The commission appointed to study flood conditions has reported two bills which it will ask this legislature to pass. The first bill creates a water control board to consist of the attorney general, the auditor of state and President Stone of Purdue university. No state aid is provided for.

The abatement bill will have its chief opposition in the person of interests owning property now rented at very high rates to keeper of bawdy houses. For this reason it is believed the objection will be more in the nature of an under-current. The bill is directed straight at the owners of these properties. It would make it possible for the prosecuting attorney or any citizen of a county to petition for an injunction against the owner of this property. The court would give the owner a chance to abate the nuisance, but in case he did not do so, the personal effects of the resort are seized and sold to pay the costs of the case and not less than $300 is levied from the real estate. This sum reverts to the county, though a portion may go to the attorney who conducts the case if he be other than the prosecuting attorney. The injunction is then made permanent and the property is liable to contempt proceedings if he violates it.

This abatement law is said to have quite a lot of sentiment favoring it. There would be a certain hesitancy on the part of any legislator before he would rise in the assembly and oppose this bill, it is believed. It is similar to laws in Washington, Oregon, California, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and the District of Columbia, and it has been sustained by the supreme courts of Nebraska, Washington and Minnesota. It would give reformers a weapon they have long sought. To date there has been no effective means of putting resorts out of business.

The lobby, "insidious" or "pernicious," or whatever adjective is preferred, apparently is about to breathe its last in Indiana if the act to be passed by the legislature is effective. Governor Ralston and Speaker Bedwell have spoken against the lobby. Probably the act will require registration of lobbyists with a statement of employer, etc.

Unique legislation will be asked of both Indiana and Illinois this year in the form of a contract between the two states to co-operate to drain the Kankakee swamps, which extend into Illinois. The bill will first be presented to this legislature and if successful will be taken before the Illinois body. It means the redemption of land that would be worth many millions, its advocates say. It would mean the straightening of the Kankakee river, shortening it 28 miles. The river would be widened and deepened. The bill would authorize the state of Indiana to contract with the sister state to redeem the interstate swamp.

Two other drainage bills will be advanced. One creates drainage districts and the other would maintain the ditches already dug. These districts would hold the same relation to the state as a city now does, and the five supervisors would have the functions of the mayor and city council.

The state must be reapportioned during this session as to state senatorial and representative districts. Lake and Marion counties get fuller representation, and some counties that have lost in population will lose. The districts must be compact and contiguous. Some profess to add an advantage to the Democrats in this reapportionment.

Two registration forces are in sight—those who would repeal outright the present law and those who would make possible permanent registration in rural districts.

Rep. John R. Jones of Plymouth will again introduce his out-of-door direct primaries bill. Senator Fleming of Portland will introduce his bill to impose stringent regulations on the election of delegates to organizing and nominating conventions, in lieu of primaries, called the regulated delegated convention plan. The Democratic platform says primaries should be held, but not until after the convention.

Henry W. Bullock, chairman of the workman compensation commission appointed by the Governor, has a bill that would make it very inconvenient for employers who remained without its scope, while it is not compulsory. It removes the employers' defense against suit for damages in many regards. The employers are said to have a bill which would give the employer more liberty insuring with private companies and which would not give immediate compensation.

The Crowds Keep Coming The Bargains Keep Going

This January Clean-Up Sale in all departments is creating a furor. We can find no other word for it. And it bears no element of exaggeration. As one lady said to another yesterday, "When Casady's start price reductions, you can always look for something away out of the ordinary and for values far excess of expectations." THAT EXPLAINS THE SITUATION. There is something good here for every female member of the family, for every young lady, for every girl and for every child. It is the biggest sale of Dry Goods, Carpets, Cloaks, Suits and Skirts held in Rushville for years. The amount you will save will increase by leaps and bounds as you increase your purchases. It will pay you to allow yourself the fullest liberty in anticipating future needs. SUCH A CARNIVAL OF VALUES COME BUT NOW AND THEN IN A LIFE-TIME. Hadn't you better attend tomorrow?

Open Until 10 P. M. Saturday.
It will pay you to visit our Carpet and Rug Department on the second floor. The bargains are many there.

WATSON TAKES "NOMINATION"

about as many men from the rural districts of Fayette county, including a few from Glenwood, as there were from Connersville itself.

It was variously estimated that the banquet cost the club between four and five hundred dollars. There are over three hundred members. The resident members pay no initiation fees, but pay ten dollars a year dues. The non-resident members, which includes farmers and others living outside Connersville, pay five dollars, which entitled them to life membership, with no dues. Most of the dues are paid by the year and the secretary receives a salary of one hundred dollars a year. The club pays $600 a year rental for its elaborate quarters.

Following an "entire" march by the orchestra, an invocation by the C. A. Whittitt, "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary" by the quartet in which everybody joined in the chorus, a solo by Mrs. Arnold Spencer, a solo by Mr. Spencer, another selection by the orchestra and a second number by the quartet, during which time the food set on the table disappeared, F. I. Barrows, former mayor of Connersville, welcomed the visiting railroad men. His remarks were the signal for uproarious laughter whenever he hit on a particularly timely saying that fitted local conditions. He "roasted" the other roads, excepting the C. H. & D., of course, and read a home-grown poem, a-la-Kipling, about a new slate roof on the Big Four Station, much to the delight of the crowd. In passing, he observed that it was a good thing the L. E. & W. officials were present to prevent the other railroad men from packing the L. E. & W. station away in their grips.

Judge Smith spoke briefly. He said he and Harmon were appointed receivers July 2, 1913. On July 10, they and officials made an inspection. They stopped off at Connersville. When they got on the train, Judge Smith said, he declared Connersville should have a new station and all agreed.

"But I want to tell you gentlemen of Connersville," he continued, "you got the first dividend the road ever declared under the new management. And since there are no creditors here, I may say that you got the only dividend."

Judge Smith quoted figures to show ten years ago the C. H. & D. was a paying road; that it is now paying the interest on its mortgaged debt; much less its running expenses. He said the increase in wages and taxes were the two things responsible for the failures of so many railroads. He pleaded that the legislation be taken from the railroad business so it may live.

"The time has come," he continued, "when condemnation of the railroads as a means of political preferment should cease."

After the introductory remarks, Mr. Watson commented on the fact that the C. H. & D. was in the hands of a receiver and said that from his present condition, he feared he would have to follow suit.

"My friend Ned," he declared later, "told me I might talk on any subject except politics. What shall I talk about? I do not know anything else. I shall do as Ned says, but with all this talk of receiverships, what an opportunity I am missing! But a man who goes about the country giving many public addresses as I do, or attempting to give them, has ample opportunity to observe conditions."

Mr. Watson decried the present tendency to legislate out all of the ills of the people. He said over a hundred thousand laws had been passed by congress and the legislatures in three years. He declared that development of individualism, character, if you please, is the means of salvation in this country. He deplored the teachings given a youth to make wealth an ideal instead of a means to an ideal.

Mr. Watson said he lost patience with the popular orator who used to go into the schools and paint pictures of success, usually winding up with the exclamation that he might be looking into the faces of some future president, senator or congressman. Mr. Watson said he always felt like grabbing such a man "by the nap of the neck and the seat of the pants" and throwing him out.

"If every man who has not been president," he continued, "is a failure, with the exception of four or five men, we of one generation are all failures, and I can prove by about half of the people that most of the presidents were failures."

"I want to give you the Hoosier definition of success: find your place and fill it. The man who does that and fills it well is a genuine success, no matter what his station in life may be. There must be a bottom brick as well as a top brick. In fact, I have a faint suspicion that the top brick could not hold its position were it not for the bottom brick."

"Everything does not depend on law-government. Some men do not do right because they have not the courage, but they want laws passed so they will be compelled to. The individuals make the laws and this government will never rise above the average intelligence of its people." Sidney London's caricatures and impersonations won instant attention. He depicted Mark Twain, Victor Hugo, Bill Nye and the old man from Posey county, Indiana, who went to Boston to visit his son who was a graduate of Harvard and practicing law. The Hoosier made some quaint remarks about the east.

PUSH THROUGH GERMANS.

(By United Press.)

Petrograd, Jan. 8.—The Russian army moving from the north against the east front was reported to have pushed through the German outer line of trenches and to be slowly gaining ground although the weather continues to be detrimental to any speedy achievements. This is the only point along the battleline where there is any change.

2 RUSS AIRSHIPS TAKEN.

(By United Press.)

Berlin, (By Wireless), Jan. 8.—Announcement that two Russian aircrafts have been shot down and their crews either taken or killed in the Lodz district is made today. It was stated that the Russian aviators have been unusually active the last three days and because of their boldness they have proved easy victims. The general situation in Poland shows little change. Sapping and mining are resulting in slight gains at certain points but on most of the front the bad weather makes it impossible any speedy achievements.

BODY IS FOUND HANGING TO BEAM

Mrs. Mary Alice Reeves, Age Sixty-Eight, Widow of Late Captain J. B. Reeve, Commits Suicide.

DISCOVERED LATE YESTERDAY

Her Threats Recently to Take Her Life Not Thought Dangerous—Left Alone in Afternoon.

The dead body of Mrs. Mary Alice Reeve, widow of the late J. B. Reeve, was found suspended from a beam in the attic at her home in North Main street, yesterday afternoon between four and five o'clock. The body was found by Thomas Overton, colored, who had been employed at the Reeve home for many years.

The suicide of Mrs. Reeve came as a surprise to her many friends, although she had threatened to kill herself many times. Following the death of her husband November 18, 1911, Mrs. Reeve's mind became affected through grief over his death and for a time she was in a sanatorium in Oxford. She had a horror for that place and seemed to be laboring under the impression that she would be returned there.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Reeve sent Overton on an errand and was left alone in the house. A nurse has been with her ever since her return from Oxford, but yesterday the nurse was in Indianapolis to undergo an operation for the removal of her tonsils. Mr. Overton returned to the house shortly after four o'clock and seeing nothing of Mrs. Reeve instituted a search. He went to the attic but could not find her. He started to leave and then decided to look further. He struck a match and found the body hanging from the beam.

Mrs. Reeve had probably been dead some time when found. She used a small rope and jumped from a step-ladder. She was off the floor a distance of four feet.

Mrs. Reeve was widely known and her untimely end was very pathetic. Mrs. Reeve was sixty-eight years old and was a daughter of the late John and Matilda Dixon. She had lived all her life in Rushville and was married December 21, 1865 to Mr. Reeve. Mr. Reeve for many years was cashier of the Rushville National bank. Mrs. Reeve was a devoted member of the St. Paul's Methodist church.

Mrs. Reeve had threatened to take her life a number of times but her friends did not believe she was in earnest. Friends and relatives do not hold Mr. Overton or the nurse responsible in any way for her death as they did not believe Mrs. Reeve would ever carry out her threats. For the past year or so Mrs. Reeve had appeared more rational and it was believed she would in time completely recover.

Mrs. Reeve is survived by one son, Earl Reeve of Chicago. A daughter, Nellie, died in infancy. The funeral arrangements have not been completed but will be held Sunday some time. The exact hour will not be known until the son's arrival from Chicago.

TRAIN DELAYED.

South bound Big Four passenger train due here at 8:03 o'clock was delayed for over an hour this morning between Farmers and Henderson when a rod was jammed through the grate of the fire box. The grate fell out making it impossible to get a fire in the engine. Another engine was sent from Anderson. Several of the passengers were brought on to this city in automobiles.

WILL NEWBOLD GETS PLUM

Tells Friends Today he Received State Appointment Dec. 28.

Will L. Newbold an attorney of this city, and formerly one of the owners of the local Democratic paper, has been appointed an insurance examiner by Dale J. Crittenger, auditor of state. Mr. Newbold received the appointment December 28, but was too modest to let the fact become known until today when he returned from Fort Wayne where he has been engaged in his official position. The insurance department of the state is under the auditor of state. Crittenger and Newbold have long been friends and the appointment came because of this as well as political reasons.

FIRE PUT OUT WITH SMALL LOSS OF $50

Blaze Breaks Out in Eaves on East Side of I. & C. General Offices Here Today.

IRON PIPE IS OVERHEATED

A fire loss of probably $50 resulted at the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company's general offices this morning when the eaves on the east side of the building caught fire from the chimney of the furnace. When found the building was in flames next to the roof where the iron chimney leads through the eaves. Quick action by the fire department prevented a greater loss.

The iron chimney from the furnace leads from the basement up on the outside of the building and as it nears the roof goes through the eaves. The pipe became overheated and fired the roof. The fire was a stubborn one to fight as it got it under the roof and the slate roof made it exceptionally hard to get to the blaze. Very little water was thrown and Sam Finney with a chemical tank on the roof soon had the fire under control. The blaze was discovered about eight-thirty o'clock.

TO CONDUCT PRIZE ESSAY EVENT AGAIN

Daughters of American Revolution Will Award $26 in Prizes for Best Historical Papers

SOME CHANGES THIS YEAR

The Daughters of the American Revolution will again conduct a prize essay contest in the history classes of the public schools. The members were so well pleased with the support of the superintendent, teachers and pupils of the history classes in the contest last year that it was again decided to hold the event.

A slightly different arrangement will be used this year. The pupils will write on some historical subject assigned by the teacher, but the pupils will not sign any names to the essays and they will be graded by disinterested people. In this manner the contest will be conducted in a fair manner, giving everyone an equal chance. A committee from the D. A. R. visited several history classes yesterday and the pupils are enthusiastic over the proposition.

A total of $26 in prizes will be divided for the best essays and the awards will be made about April 1. The D. A. R. is assisted in the movement by the Sons of the American Revolution.

WATSON TAKES "NOMINATION"

Rushville Man "Brings Down House" After Complimentary Speech by Commercial Club Head.

AT CONNERSVILLE BANQUET

Over 300 Men Are Seated and 95 Are Turned Away and Club Pays Freight—Elaborate Program.

James E. Watson of this city literally "took down the house" at the Connerville Commercial Club banquet last night when he "accepted the nomination for president." Chances are that if the election had been held right there, it would have been almost unanimous.

When E. P. Hawkins, president of the Commercial Club, introduced Mr. Watson, the chief speaker of the evening, he said it was the greatest pleasure of his life.

"Jim Watson is the best orator in the United States and he ought to be president of the United States," said Mr. Hawkins. "The next time I introduce him I hope he is president of the United States."

When Mr. Watson arose to speak thunderous applause greeted him. He was forced to pause for a few minutes until the demonstration subsided.

"Ned Hawkins is my friend," observed Mr. Watson. "I like to have my friends lie about me because my enemies always lie against me."

Then there was a pause. If a pin had dropped, undoubtedly everybody in the banquet room would have heard it.

Turning and bowing to the toastmaster with a gracious smile, Mr. Watson said: "I accept the nomination."

The was the turn of affairs that brought a bigger demonstration to the Rushville man than that which was the signal of his appearance.

"That speech was worth the price of one year's dues alone," shouted a man named Carter, who arose and made that remark when Mr. Watson had concluded.

"Is Carter paid up?" asked President Hawkins soberly.

The banquet was the occasion of the celebration of the erection in Connerville recently of a new C. H. & D. depot. Judge Rufus B. Smith of Cincinnati, co-receiver with Judson Harmon, of the C. H. & D., was present and made a short talk and there were also representatives of the Big Four and L. E. & W. railroads and the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company.

By the exact count, there were just three hundred and twenty-nine men jammed into the immense banquet hall. Ninety-five others came late and wanted to be fed. So they were taken to a Connerville restaurant and later came back to the banquet to hear the program.

The turkey was passed at seven o'clock and from that time until eleven o'clock there was one thing after another to entertain the banqueters. Besides the two speakers, there was a Connerville quartet, two soloists, who, by the way, are not unknown to Rushville people—Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Spencer of Indianapolis—an orchestra and an impersonator, Sidney Landon, who was here at the chautauqua a few years ago. Besides there was an exhibition of pool and billiards in the club rooms preceding the banquet.

Everybody went free. The Connerville Commercial club paid the freight. As a host the club is right alongside the best. Everybody was made to feel at home. There were

PLAN A BIGGER EVENT FOR 1916

Uniform Rank K. of P. Companies Prepare to Hold Regimental Inspection and Installation

NEWCASTLE NAMED AS PLACE

Annual Joint Event Here Thursday Night Attended by Sixty—Pig Roast Enjoyable Feature

Plans were formulated here last night at the joint inspection and installation of officers of Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias companies of this city and Newcastle, to hold a regimental inspection and installation of officers at Newcastle next year. As there are ten companies in the regiment, it will be seen that the boosters of the project have quite a task mapped out for themselves, but they expect to bring it to pass. Ivy Company No. 35 of this city last night was host at the annual inspection and installation of the new officers of Ivy company and the Newcastle company. A pig roast was scheduled for six-thirty o'clock, but did not get under way until after eight o'clock because the Newcastle delegation was delayed.

Seventeen members came down from Newcastle in four automobiles. The delay in arriving was due to trouble with three of the machines. One of them finally had to be abandoned at Dunreith and another automobile was rented to bring the crowd on here. The delegations expected from Knightstown and Connerville did not show up.

Sixty Knights sat down to the pig roast. Samuel L. Trabue, adjutant general on the staff of the newly elected major general commanding the Uniform Rank of United States and Canada, acted as toastmaster. Colonel Phelps, of Newcastle, commander of the third regiment, responded to a toast. G. P. Hunt, the retiring captain of Ivy company, and J. K. Jameson, the new captain, both made short talks. Several of the visitors also responded briefly to toasts.

Colonel Phelps said that the inspection was very creditable when the fact is taken into consideration that it is held only once a year. Members of the Newcastle company brought along a box of roses, for which their city is famed, as a gift to the members of Ivy company.

Will Morgan, who gave the pig and made possible the excellent meal, was extended a hearty vote of thanks for his part and the spirit in which he gave it, and he was pronounced a good fellow by all of his fellow members of Ivy company as well as by the visiting members who became acquainted with him.

New officers installed by Ivy company were as follows: J. K. Jameson, captain; Bert Conde, first lieutenant; Lote Carter, second lieutenant; Fred R. Beale, left guard; George Coons, right guard; Walter Peters, recorder; Floyd Hogsett, treasurer.

INDICTED BY GRAND JURY.

Seth Hardin, of Dunreith, has been indicted by the Henry county grand jury on two counts of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquors and with being intoxicated. He was released on $75 bond.

Miss Pet Meredith, a teacher in the Graham school, is ill at her home in North Morgan street, suffering from an attack of acute indigestion. Mrs. Roy Mayso is substituting for her at school.

PASS RESOLUTION TODAY

Both Legislative Branches Want Quarantine to be Modified.

(By United Press.) Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—Both branches of the legislature today rushed through a joint resolution calling upon the federal authorities to modify the existing foot and mouth quarantine in Indiana. The resolution asked that the quarantine be restricted to areas to within five miles of the infected district. Representative Maurice Douglass, who introduced the resolution, declared that stock raisers were suffering great and needless loss as the result of the quarantine which limits their market to Indianapolis. Both branches adjourned until Monday at 2 p. m.

DIES TODAY AT THE HOME OF DAUGHTER

Mrs. Nancy J. McDonald, Age 79 Years, Expires Following Second Stroke of Paralysis.

SURVIVED BY NINE CHILDREN

Mrs. Nancy Jane McDonald, 79 years old, widow of the late James McDonald, died this afternoon shortly before two o'clock, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Christian Fox, corner of First and Pearl streets. Mrs. McDonald suffered a second stroke of paralysis Monday, and since that time her death had been expected. She suffered the first stroke last June. She would have been eighty years old March 15.

Mrs. McDonald was born and reared in Rush county and lived here all her life with the exception of three years spent in Illinois. Since the death of her husband two years ago she had lived with her daughter Mrs. Fox. Besides Mrs. Fox she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Jesse Hinton, Myldreth McDonald, George, Jerry, Frank, Milburn and John McDonald. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

NEW COMPLICATION SEEN

Carranza Annuls Land Concessions Issued Since December 1, 1886.

(By United Press.)

Galveston, Texas, Jan. 8.—Confirmation of the latest international complication in the Mexican situation was received here this afternoon in a cablegram from Vera Cruz to Mexican Consul Burns. General Carranza was officially stated to have annulled all concessions of land, forests and water granted in Mexico since December 1, 1886, promising to return this wealth to the township. Great foreign oil wells and mining interests are affected.

John M. Eaton has filed an account suit against Elizabeth Beckner demanding $150.

Margaret Fritch has filed a claim against the estate of Joe Lyons, deceased demanding $112.50. The suit is against Benjamin F. Miller, administrator.

William H. Fee, of Clarksburg, has filed suit for damages in Deatur circuit court, against James Lawson, alleging that his automobile was damaged in a collision with the machine driven by Lawson. He alleges carelessness on the part of Lawson. The demand is $250.

PEOPLE THROG TO GREET WILSON

Thomas Taggart Member of Committee Which Escorts President From Station This Afternoon.

WAS TO SPEAK AT 3 O'CLOCK

At Richmond President Says Nation is Heading What is None of its Business—Europe.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—Half playfully, half earnestly President Wilson told three thousand people at Richmond, Ind., this afternoon that this nation is heading what "is none of your business"—Europe's affairs. In place of this he counseled serious deliberation of America's business, both its future and past.

The nation, he said, must maintain its equilibrium; it must face, too, the problem of the future now that the administration has attempted to break the shackles on American business.

His speech at Richmond was preliminary to the one which he was to deliver here this afternoon at three o'clock.

The president was greeted by an immense throng at the station and was ushered through the crowd by a reception committee consisting of Senator Kern, Governor Ralston and National Committeeman Thomas Taggart and others.

TO REVIEW ACHIEVEMENTS.

(By United Press.) Dennison, Ohio, Jan. 8.—Speeding westward enroute to Indianapolis where this afternoon he is expected to deliver a highly significant political speech, President Wilson passed through here this morning.

The president's address as guest of the Indiana Democratic club's "Jackson Day" celebration will be a review of Democratic achievements and an answer to the critics of the administration and possibly will sound the opening guns of the 1916 political campaign.

The president will carefully avoid questions of war and neutrality in his address.

The president was up early this morning feeling fit. A great deal of interest was shown at the station but the president did not appear before the crowds that gathered.

ROBERTS NOT ON TRAIN.

(By United Press.) Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—Positive word was received here today that Donn M. Roberts, mayor of Terre Haute who was indicted in federal court for conspiracy, was not on the president's train when it left Washington last night. Roberts boarded the 6:15 train while the president's train left at 7:10.

An Advertisement That Failed

In New York City millions use the street cars and a large proportion ride on transfers.

Some one once conceived the idea of printing a daily advertisement on each transfer.

The privilege was sold to a large advertiser for a great sum of money.

It was one of the biggest advertising failures ever recorded. The returns from the advertising were almost nothing.

The store finds by spending the same amount of money in the newspapers it can increase its business from year to year at a most satisfactory ratio.

WHEAT IS STILL GOING UP

Prices Continue to Set New Records on Chicago Market.

(By United Press.) Chicago, Jan. 8.—At noon wheat was quoted at $1.40 for May and $1.26 7/8 for July. At this time there was no indication of any break. On the other hand buyers were still in the majority. At one o'clock May wheat had gone to $1.41 1/2 and July to $1.26 7/8. May opened at $1.39 1/2, or 1 and one eighth cents higher yesterday's close. A wave of buying enthusiasm following reports of immense cash sales is given as the reason for the continued rise which makes the third high price record for the year. Other grain followed in the wake of wheat.

Amusements

Tonight, the Gem will show King Baggot in "The Turn in the Tide." It is one of those simple human dramas, with a true-to-life hero, a genuine villain and a heroine who will remind you of the girl you knew back in the old days. King Baggot plays the role of the hero. Arline Pretty, in the part of the heroine, is said to be as pretty as one could wish. It is a tale of the sea-coast and of fisher people. You see the fisher boy, in his manly art, win the heart of the girl. And when the boy is temporarily separated from the girl, as the result of another villain, you sympathize. But when the big scene arrives—when our hero returns, the successful man, in time to rescue his old sweetheart from the pounding sea, the thrills which accompany the spectacular feat is said to be great. Louise Fazenda and William Franey are seen in "When Their Wives Joined the Regiment." Another of the thrilling episodes of "The Trey O'Hearts" will be shown tomorrow night.

The Mystic offers a fine program tonight showing a two reel Essanay drama "What Soever a Woman Soweth" for the first picture. Gerda Hohnes and Richard Travers are featured. She refuses to marry a man whose father is a thief. She does marry and is unhappy. After many years her own son becomes a thief and the climax is said to be a thriller. The other is the sixth of "The Beloved Adventurer" series. Arthur Johnson and Lottis Briscoe are featured. Saturday night the two reel Vitagraph drama "Within an Ace" with Dorothy Kelley and James Morrison will be shown.

The Princess will show the four reel feature "One Wonderful Night" for the program tonight. Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are featured. It is said to be a story full of action, beautiful scenes and thrilling situations. It is taken from the prize story of the same name and is said to be a very remarkable and exceptional picture. Tomorrow night the two reel feature "Playing With Fire" will be shown.

On Monday and Tuesday evening, Jan. 11-12, the great English actress, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, in her brilliant success "Pygmalion" is to be the attraction at English's opera house. No other actress who has ever come to us from abroad has had a greater number of successes to her credit than Mrs. Campbell and it is said by all critics who have seen the new Shaw play that never has she been given greater opportunity for the display of her wonderful talent than in this production.

"The Quaker Girl" is to be seen at English's opera house, Indianapolis, Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 13 and 14, and to lovers of good musical comedy, this announcement will be specially pleasing, for "The Quaker Girl" is full of high-class music, numerous song hits, and bright, witty lines. The producers have spared no expense in giving this musical comedy a splendid setting, both as to scenic equipment and costumes. A clever cast of principles has been chosen to interpret the roles and a good singing and dancing chorus complete and outfit, which assures the theater-goers of a satisfying evening's entertainment.

Margaret Anglin, America's foremost actress, is to be the attraction at English's opera house, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 15 and 16, with matinees Saturday. Miss Anglin will be seen in her splendid revival-production of "Lady Windemere's Fan" which ran for three months in New York last season. Although in her stage career Miss Anglin has demonstrated her ability to handle almost any role it is as an emotional actress that she is at her best and thus, the role of Mrs. Erylone is particularly suited to this charming actress. She brings with her a brilliant company of players—the same company that helped to make her revival of the Oscar Wilde comedy drama a success for three months in New York.

PROMINENT MAN AT SHORT COURSE

Dr. L. H. Bailey of Cornell, Chairman of Country Life Commission, to Discuss Agriculture.

IS FOR BEST IN COUNTRY LIFE

Indiana people will have an opportunity to hear at Purdue Farmers' Short Course, Dr. L. H. Bailey of Cornell University, New York. Dr. Bailey is the leading agricultural educator of the city. He served as Chairman of the Country Life Commission appointed by President Roosevelt. He has written more agricultural books than any other man, among which is the noted "Cyclopedia of American Agriculture." Dr. Bailey stands for the best in agriculture and country life and his work at Purdue should mean much to every one attending the Short Course. Tuesday, Jan. 12th, Dr. Bailey will speak from 4 to 5 p. m. on "The Significance of Agricultural work in the Common Schools." Tuesday evening, on "The Country Village and Farming Community." Everyone interested in agricultural advancement should arrange to hear Dr. Bailey.

PROMINENT MEN TO MAKE TALKS

Indiana Retail Merchant Association Announces Speakers For Fifteenth Convention.

H. A. WHEELER ONE SPEAKER

One Afternoon During Meeting Retailers Will Visit the Legislature in a Body.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—The most interesting and the strongest program in the history of the Indiana Retail Merchants Association has been arranged for the 15th Annual Convention in Indianapolis, the 19-20-21 of January, according to announcement today.

The prominent men on the program are H. A. Wheeler, of Chicago, Joe Mitchell Chapple of Boston, E. St. Elmo Lewis of Jamestown, N. Y., John A. Green of Cleveland and George E. Green of Chicago.

Mr. Wheeler is Vice-President of the Union Trust Company, Chicago and past president of Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He was one of the first selected for a place on the Federal Reserve Board. He will talk on the present banking system.

E. St. Elmo Lewis was formerly advertising and sales manager of the Barringtons Adding Machine Company and is now Vice-president and General Manager of the Art Metal Construction Company. He is one of the best posted men in business efficiency in this country.

Mr. Chappelle is editor of the National Magazine and has the distinction, it is said, of knowing more prominent people in all parts of the world than any other man in America. John A. Green is the secretary of the National Grocers & Butchers Association and George E. Green is western representative of the Shredded Wheat Biscuit company.

The last afternoon of the convention will adjourn and visit the state house in a body.

Rushville People Are Shown the Way Out.

Kidney diseases are very dangerous. They come on silently, gain ground rapidly, and cause thousands of deaths that could have been prevented by proper treatment in the beginning. Nature gives early warnings of kidney disease—backache, twinges of pain when stooping or lifting, headaches and urinary disorders. If these symptoms are unheeded, there is grave danger of dropsy or possible Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills have earned a reputation for their effectiveness in kidney troubles, and are known and recommended the world over. Rushville readers should find convincing proof in the following statement. It's from a citizen of this locality.

J. P. Champion, 618 West Fifth street, Rushville, says: "I suffered a great deal from backache and kidney weakness. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a supply from Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. They gave me relief. I think highly of Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to confirm what one of my family said about them some years ago."

The Trey O' Hearts

A Novelized Version of the Motion Picture Drama of the Same Name Produced by the Universal Film Co.

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
Author of "The Fortune Hunter," "The Brass Band," "The Black Dog," etc.
Illustrated with Photographs from the Picture Production

Copyright, 1914, by Louis Joseph Vance

As for Rose and Alan—heaven alone knew what had happened to them. So Barcus set himself to find out whatever Providence knew without more delay. The racing car was barely out of sight when he sprang from the sheltering trees and, Judith at his heels, pelted headlong down the slope to the spot where the others had vanished.

To find them not only alive but practically unscathed affected that loyal soul almost to tears.

But when congratulations had been mutually exchanged, there fell an awkward pause. The eyes of the four sought one another's ruefully, each pair quick with the unuttered but inexorable inquiry: What next?

In the outcome, it was Mr. Barcus who advanced the suggestion which was adopted—though this was its reception more through lack of a better than for any actual appeal intrinsic in the proposition.

"When we broke down, I saw," he ventured, with a backward jerk of his thumb to indicate the road, "a canyon branching off from this one about a quarter of a mile over yonder. If it's all the same to you people, we might stroll round that way and see what its natural attractions may be—if any. But it's sure a mighty poor sort of a canyon that doesn't lead anywhere—and nothing could possibly be more fatiguing to our mercurial and restless tempers than to squat down here and fold our hands in our laps and wait for something to turn up—and anyway we can't be worse off than we are—and—"

"Sufficient!" Mr. Law interrupted with a bleak smile.

Crooking a deferential arm, Barcus offered it to Judith.

"Everything is lovely in the formal garden," he insisted—"so sweetly romantic. Are you game for an idle saunter, just to while the idle hours away?"

The woman found spirit enough for a wan smile as she tucked her hand gratefully beneath his arm.

"You're the cheerfulest soul I ever met," she said demurely. "What I'm going to do without you when—if ever—we get out of this awful business, goodness only knows."

"Let's talk of something else," he suggested hastily.

"Unless, of course," she pursued with unbroken gravity, "I marry you."

"Heaven," the young man prayed fervently, "forfeud!"

"That is hardly gallant—"

"I mean—heaven forfeud that you should throw yourself away!"

"Humph!" she mused. "Perhaps you're right."

Their banter was not without a subtle object, namely, to reassure the girl who followed, supported by her lover's arm.

In the course of the last 24 hours Rose's jealousy of her sister's newfound friendliness with Alan had become acutely evident. The least courtesy which circumstances now and again demanded that he show Judith or seem a boor, was enough to cloud the countenance of Alan's betrothed.

Nor, indeed, was Rose altogether destitute of plausible excuse for this feeling. It was undeniable that between Alan and Judith a bond of sympathy had grown out of the trials and hardships they had of late suffered in common. It was undeniable—but even in his most private thoughts Alan denied it fiercely. Judith, on the other hand, not only acknowledged it freely to herself, but secretly derived a strangely sweet and poignant pleasure from the knowledge that she loved so madly and hopelessly.

That her love was hopeless she knew but too well. Even though Alan might not be altogether indifferent to her, after all that had passed between them, his loyalty to Rose was unshakable. And not for worlds would Rose's rival have had it otherwise. She could not have loved him as she did had he not been so unmovably true. As it was, since she could not hope her love might be returned, she was content to love and to promise herself that, if opportunity ever offered, she would not prove unready to sacrifice herself for her love.

And at times she caught herself praying that such opportunity would be accorded her, and quickly, and that the sacrifice it should demand would be complete.

Now prayers are sometimes answered when the boon craved is good for the soul.

Slowly and painfully these four toiled along an obscure trail that followed the windings of the little river, until a branch struck into the main stream and so discovered to them yet another trail leading into the westward canyon.

Then again slowly and painfully they plodded on following blindly another trail blazed by Fates as blind as they.

Above them, on the road they had abandoned, the crimson racer doubled back to the point where it had passed Judith and Barcus; its occupants descended, explored, and came presently upon the trail of the fugitives. Bloodhounds could not have set-led down upon a scent with more good will and eagerness than Mr. Marrophat and his faithful aide.

The sun was high and blazing above the canyon when the pursuit came within rifle shot of the chase.

A spiteful shot roused the quartet from a pause of lethargic dismay due to tardy appreciation of the fact that they had penetrated wittlessly almost to the end of a blind alley.

A hasty council of war armed Alan with Judith's revolver and posted him behind a boulder commanding the approaches to the chasm. The weapon, a powerful .45, had a range sufficient to numb the impetuosity of the assassins and keep them under cover and out of sight of the desperate essays the fugitives were making to compass an escape.

For in the shed behind an abandoned log cabin—souvenir, no doubt, of some forgotten prospector—Barcus had unearthed a length of stout hempen rope.

With the aid of a rusty shovel he had hacked this into two equal lengths. One of these lengths he proceeded to make fast around his own waist, then around Rose's. The other he left to be similarly employed by Alan and Judith. For it was agreed that they must climb, and while the cliff offered no problem to daunt a mountain climber of any pretensions, it was considered best that the fugitives should be hitched up in pairs against any possibility of a slip. The pairing had been determined by the fact that Barcus boasted some slight experience in mountaineering, while Rose was plainly the most exhausted of the two women, the least able to help herself in an emergency.

He had worked his cautious way, with the girl in tow, to a point midway up the face of the cliff, following a long diagonal that provided the easiest climbing, when Alan stole back to Judith and reported that, on the evidence of observation and belief, he was convinced that the pursuit had turned back—perhaps for want of ammunition, perhaps to execute some less hazardous attempt upon the lives of the fugitives.

Without delay, then, he made the free end of the rope fast around his own waist, and, following the way Barcus had chosen, began the ascent.

Two-thirds of the climb had been accomplished, and Rose and Barcus had arrived in safety at the top, before the temptation to look down proved irresistible.

Immediately beneath his heels the face of the cliff was deeply hollowed out, leaving a drop of 50 feet to a shelving ledge of shale as steep as a roof, whose eaves—perhaps another fifty feet below—jutted out over another fall of a hundred feet.

Alan shuddered and swallowed hard before resuming the ascent.

Another 20 feet brought him to a ledge quite six feet wide, offering a broad and easy path to the summit. He gained this with a prayer of heartfelt relief and was on the point of rising to his feet when a cry of horror from Barcus and a scream of terror from Rose, watching over the upper edge, warned him barely in time to enable him to snatch at and grasp a knob of rock before Judith's weight tautened the rope between them and jerked Alan's legs from under him.

His feet and legs kicked the empty air beyond the lip of the ledge, he lay face downward, clutching desperately the knob of rock, praying that it might not come away in his grasp, that his grasp might hold, that Barcus might arrive in time to save them both. The rope was cutting into his waist like a dull knife. The drag of Judith's body was frightful. He could feel her swinging like a pendulum at the end of its 30 feet, and could imagine but too vividly what would happen if the rope should prove faulty.

The fall of 20 feet to the shale roof was nothing. What would follow would, however, spell death. The impact of her body would set the shale in motion, like an avalanche—and beyond the eaves was only emptiness and the boulder-strewn bed of the chasm, a hundred feet below!

The sweat poured from his face like rain. His eyes started in their sockets, the blood drummed in his ears with a roar resembling distant thunder. His fingers grew numb, his throat dry.

He felt that he could not hold on another instant when, abruptly, that torture was no more. The rope had been relieved of its burden. He heard a scream from below echoed by one from above, then the thump of Judith's body falling on the shale, then the slithering rumble of the landslide gathering momentum.

Barcus, at length arrived, assisted him to a place of security. Spent and faint and sick with horror, he lay prone and shuddering.

Only the assurance of Barcus that Judith had somehow escaped being precipitated over the eaves of the shale roof roused him and gave him nerve enough to resume the climb.

It was true, when he found courage to look and see for himself; she lay within three yards of the brink su-pine, her face uplifted to the sun, unstirring; she dared not stir; a single

movement was calculated to set the shale bed again in motion.

Painfully he realized that if, as Barcus asserted, she had deliberately cut the rope herself, Judith had offered up her life to spare his own.

CHAPTER L

Retribution.

And yet the very consciousness of the girl's danger was all the stimulant that Alan needed to recall him to himself.

Once arrived with Barcus at the top of the cliff, he lost no time in setting about preparations to effect her rescue.

In this business Fortune smiled upon him, as it were, by predisposition.

A broad roadway ran along the top of the precipice, turning off at a little distance to the right, to descend the mountainside. And just beyond this turning Providence had chosen to locate the camp of a hydraulic mining outfit.

Alan's appearance at the top, in fact, was coincident with the arrival at that point of half a dozen excited miners; and he had no more than voiced his demands than three of their number were hastening back to the camp to procure rope and more hands.

Within five minutes Alan, against the protests of Rose and Barcus, was being lowered over the edge and down to the shale roof on which he landed at a spot far to one side of Judith, to escape all danger of sending a second landslide down upon her.

Picking his way carefully down to the very brink, Alan edged along this, more than once saved a fall to death only by the rope, until he stood immediately below Judith.

Then pausing, he instructed her carefully, tossed the end of the rope into her hands, and when she had wound it twice round her arm, crept up to her side and helped her make it fast about her body.

His signal to the miners that all was well elicited prompt response. There was a giddy interval in which the two swung perilously between heaven and earth. Then they stood once more in safety.

Supported by sympathetic hands, the quartet staggered into camp, their story, as condensed by Barcus and breathlessly confirmed by Alan, already winning them enthusiastic champions.

And this was very well for them. For they had no more than seated themselves and begun to appreciate what perils they had escaped, when the rumble of a motor car sounded beyond the shoulder of the hill.

Startled by this alarm once more into full command of his flagging faculties, Alan rose and stumbled out into the roadway, taking cognizance of such facilities for defense as the camp afforded and issuing instructions with a voice vibrant with fear, not for his own safety, but for the safety of those whom he loved.

Not far from the point where the road swung from the cliff to thread the camp the hydraulic nozzle was in action, its terrific force of water melting the mountainside away ton by ton.

Toward this Barcus ran at top speed, gaining the man in charge of the nozzle just as the car swung round the bend.

Pausing only long enough to make certain that there could be no mistake—and having this certainty made doubly sure by Jimmy's action in rising from his seat and firing over the windshield pointblank at Alan as this last stood waiting in the roadway—Barcus and the miner swung the nozzle round until it bore directly on the car.

The power of its stream was such that the car was checked instantly in its tracks; and before the water could have been shut off or the stream diverted, the machine was driven back to the very lip of the cliff and over it completely, taking with it those twain upon whose efforts all the hopes of Seneca Trine of late had been centered.

A death that was merciful, in that it was instantaneous, awaited them at the foot of the cliff.

Spinal Column, Where the Cause of Disease is Located

CHIROPRACTIC

(CHI-RO-PRA-C-TIC)

The scientific method of removing the cause of all disease by adjusting to the normal position the misplaced (subluxated) vertebrae of the spinal column. The subluxated vertebra cause pressure on the Great Trunk Nerves which emanate between them, thus shutting off the transmission of vital current from the brain to some organ or part of the body to which they lead, leaving it in a weakened condition, subject to disease, causing over 95 per cent of all sickness and suffering known to mankind. Chiropractic adjustments remove the pressure (the cause of disease), restores the vital energy and health returns. I use the hands only. I ask no questions; simply analyze the spine and tell you every place you are affected.

Appendicitis, Rheumatism, Nervousness, Asthma, Neuralgia, Deafness, Loss of Voice, Insomnia, Constipation, Bed Wetting, Headaches, Paralysis, Hay Fever, Catarrh, Goiter and affections of the Eyes, Nose, Throat, Lungs, Stomach, Liver, Spleen, (Heart), Bowels, Bladder, Kidneys and reproductive organs quickly and permanently disappear under Chiropractic adjustments properly given. Spinal Curvature quickly corrected.

If you are sick or suffering in any way; if you have tried many physicians, specialists and medicines to no avail, then it is your plain duty to consult a chiropractor.

Attendance at Church of Representative
Men More Powerful Than Sermons

MEN should GO TO CHURCH.

What is the matter with our men? They are quick to proclaim their faith in God. They will strongly resent the intimation that they are nonbelievers. Yet when they are asked why they don't attend church they are ever ready with an excuse. If the leading men in this community, one and all, would start right now to attend church regularly their example would be all powerful. Their continued attendance would be more effective than a dozen sermons.

IT IS NO EXAGGERATION TO SAY THAT 75 PER CENT OF THE REGULAR CHURCHGOERS TODAY ARE WOMEN. A HUSBAND WILL TAKE PRIDE IN HIS WIFE GOING TO CHURCH. IN FACT, HE WILL ENCOURAGE ALL HER CHURCH ACTIVITIES. IT IS RIGHT THAT HE SHOULD. IT IS ALSO RIGHT, AND ONLY JUST, TOO, THAT HE SHOULD BE SEEN IN CHURCH. SURELY THERE IS NOTHING THAT HE NEED FEAR IN THE HOUSE OF WORSHIP. SOME ARE QUICK TO CRITICISE THE PREACHER. IT WILL BE SAID THAT HIS SERMONS ARE DRY. AGAIN IT WILL BE SAID THAT HE IS SENSATIONAL IN HIS METHODS. THE READING OF THE GOSPEL OF THE DAY, THE WORD OF GOD, IS NEVER DRY. NEITHER IS IT SENSATIONAL.

It is true that we live in a rapid fire age. It is true that minutes count. It is true that the calls of business and social activities are pressing. But no man is too busy, none so much in demand but that he can arrange to spend a small part of Sunday in church. There isn't a man who attends church but feels better after the service. CHURCHGOING IS UPLIFTING. It takes our mind off the fleeting things of this world. CHURCHGOING is not far removed from the sublime.

GO TO CHURCH next Sunday!
GO TO CHURCH the following Sunday!

PROSPECTS ARE SIZED UP TODAY

During the Lull Today Indiana Lawmakers Take Stock of What is to Come in Next 59 Days.

REVIEW OF PROPOSED BILLS:

Highway Legislation, Flood Prevention and Amendments Stand Out as Most Important.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—During the brief breathing space awarded the members of the 1915 assembly today before the avalanche of bills descends, the lawmakers took the opportunity to "size up" the prospects of the coming fifty-nine days. Of whatever political faith, they were of the opinion that if important measures prepared for them are enacted, the present legislature will be a notable one in point of achievement, whether commendable or otherwise.

Of the big issues awaiting consideration, but not yet formally before either house, the Stotsenberg amendments and flood prevention legislation, together with bills proposed by the state highway commission, promise at the outset to be of

Rheuma Drives it From the System and Eliminates Rheumatism.

Even since Rheuma has been sold in this vicinity the sale of this marvelous rheumatism remedy has been steadily on the increase. This is due to the fact that Rheuma is guaranteed to eliminate rheumatism or money back.

It is a quick acting remedy, too. You do not have to wait a long time for results. Rheuma starts at once to act on the kidneys, liver, bowels and blood, and before 24 hours the poisonous uric acid, the chief cause of rheumatism, has begun to pass out of the body through the regular channels. It is also good for gout and neuralgia.

One 50-cent bottle will prove to any rheumatic sufferer that Rheuma surely will cure rheumatism. Sold by Johnson's Drug Store, and all druggists.

most tremendous importance. They probably will rival the attention given two years ago to the public service commission bill. There are numerous other important measures such as lobby legislation; drainage of the Kankakee district; the abatement, or "red light district" bill; registration; primary bills; workman compensation and others to round out the session.

Present indications are that there will be a big fight over certain of the Stotsenberg amendments—they are the same which were "lost" last summer to all save United Press papers. There already is a clear-cut issue between Governor Ralston and the women of the Legislative Council. The women term No. 2 "insult to Indiana women" while the Governor says it would be wise legislation, preventing "immoral individuals" from voting. Those who want a constitutional convention may "come back" after the rather disheartening defeat of the recent election and oppose most of these amendments.

To quote an attack of the Statehouse, "there are 150 different ideas on road legislation." The state highway commission appointed by the Governor to investigate and report on road conditions and road laws of Indiana has visited every district, and has been followed everywhere by scores of objections, suggestions, resolutions and the like by "road experts" who will listen to only one kind of road legislation—their kind. The result, it is expected, will be a rather sturdy fight. The Governor has the report of the highway commission and paid in his message it called for the establishment of a state department of roads with a board consisting of the head of the school of civil engineering in Purdue, the state geologist and a third selected by the Governor; all to serve without salary. They would employ a qualified highway civil engineer with a salary not to exceed $4,000. The expenses of the board would be taken from the state automobile fund.

Flood control has been a crying need in Indiana ever since the floods of 1913 destroyed property worth approximately $25,000,000. The commission appointed to study flood conditions has reported two bills which it will ask this legislature to pass. The first bill creates a water control board to consist of the attorney general, the auditor of state and President Stone of Purdue university. No state aid is provided for.

The abatement bill will have its chief opposition in the person of interested owners property now rented at very high rates to keepers of bawdy houses. For this reason it is believed the objection will be more in the nature of an under-current. The bill is directed straight at the owners of these properties. It would make it possible for the prosecuting attorney or any citizen of a county to petition for an injunction against the owner of this property. The court would give the owner a chance to abate the nuisance, but in case he did not do so, the personal effects of the resort are seized and sold to pay the costs of the case and not less than $300 is levied from the real estate. This sum reverts to the county, though a portion may go to the attorney who conducts the case if he be other than the prosecuting attorney. The injunction is then made permanent and the property is liable to contempt proceedings if he violates it.

This abatement law is said to have quite a lot of sentiment favoring it. There would be a certain hesitancy on the part of any legislator before he would rise in the assembly and oppose this bill, it is believed. It is similar to laws in Washington, Oregon, California, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and the District of Columbia, and it has been sustained by the supreme courts of Nebraska, Washington and Minnesota. It would give reformers a weapon they have long sought. To date there has been no effective means of putting resorts out of business.

The lobby, "insidious" or "pernicious," or whatever adjective is preferred, apparently is about to breathe its last in Indiana if the act to be passed by the legislature is effective. Governor Ralston and Speaker Bedwell have spoken against the lobby. Probably the act will require registration of lobbyists with a statement of employer, etc.

Unique legislation will be asked of

New Year Greeting 1915

To my many customers I wish to extend my sincere thanks for past patronage and also wish for them a happy and prosperous NEW YEAR. To those few who have not been so fortunate as to be among my list of satisfied customers I recommend that each of you make a NEW YEAR'S resolution to be added to this list during 1915. There is a reason why my buggy business grows every year. Satisfied customers, See?

The Crowds Keep Coming The Bargains Keep Going

This January Clean-Up Sale in all departments is creating a furor. We can find no other word for it. And it bears no element of exaggeration. As one lady said to another yesterday, "When Casady's start price reductions, you can always look for something away out of the ordinary and for values far excess of expectations." THAT EXPLAINS THE SITUATION. There is something good here for every female member of the family, for every young lady, for every girl and for every child. It is the biggest sale of Dry Goods, Carpets, Cloaks, Suits and Skirts held in Rushville for years. The amount you will save will increase by leaps and bounds as you increase your purchases. It will pay you to allow yourself the fullest liberty in anticipating future needs. SUCH A CARNIVAL OF VALUES COME BUT NOW AND THEN IN A LIFE-TIME. Hadn't you better attend tomorrow?

Open Until 10 P. M. Saturday.

It will pay you to visit our Carpet and Rug Department on the second floor. The bargains are many there.

WATSON TAKES "NOMINATION"

about as many men from the rural districts of Fayette county, including a few from Glenwood, as there were from Connersville itself.

It was variously estimated that the banquet cost the club between four and five hundred dollars. There are over three hundred members. The resident members pay no initiation fees, but pay ten dollars a year dues. The non-resident members, which includes farmers and others living outside Connersville, pay five dollars, which entitled them to life membership, with no dues. Most of the dues are paid by the year and the secretary receives a salary of one hundred dollars a year. The club pays $600 a year rental for its elaborate quarters.

Following an "entire" march by the orchestra, an invocation by the C. A. Whitsitt, "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary" by the quartet in which everybody joined in the chorus, a solo by Mrs. Arnold Spencer, a solo by Mr. Spencer, another selection by the orchestra and a second number by the quartet, during which time the food set on the table disappeared, F. I. Barrows, former mayor of Connersville, welcomed the visiting railroad men. His remarks were the signal for uproarious laughter whenever he hit on a particularly timely saying that fitted local conditions. He "roasted" the other roads, excepting the C. H. & D., of course, and read a home-grown poem, a-la-Kipling, about a new slate roof on the Big Four Station, much to the delight of the crowd. In passing, he observed that it was a good thing the L. E. & W. officials were present to prevent the other railroad men from packing the L. E. & W. station away in their grips.

Judge Smith spoke briefly. He said he and Harmon were appointed receivers July 2, 1913. On July 10, they and officials made an inspection. They stopped off at Connersville. When they got on the train, Judge Smith said, he declared Connersville should have a new station and all agreed.

"But I want to tell you gentlemen of Connersville," he continued, "you got the first dividend the road ever declared under the new management. And since there are no creditors here, I may say that you got the only dividend."

Judge Smith quoted figures to show ten years ago the C. H. & D. was a paying road; that it is now paying the interest on its mortgaged debt; much less its running expenses. He said the increase in wages and taxes were the two things responsible for the failures of so many railroads. He pleaded that the legislation be taken from the railroad business so it may live.

"The time has come," he continued, "when condemnation of the railroads as a means of political preferment should cease."

After the introductory remarks, Mr. Watson commented on the fact that the C. H. & D. was in the hands of a receiver and said that from his present condition, he feared he would have to follow suit.

"My friend Ned," he declared later, "told me I might talk on any subject except politics. What shall I talk about? I do not know anything else. I shall do as Ned says, but with all this talk of receiverships, what an opportunity I am missing! But a man who goes about the country giving many public addresses as I do, or attempting to give them, has ample opportunity to observe conditions."

Mr. Watson decried the present tendency to legislate out all of the ills of the people. He said over a hundred thousand laws had been passed by congress and the legislatures in three years. He declared that development of individualism, character, if you please, is the means of salvation in this country. He deplored the teachings given a youth to make wealth an ideal instead of a means to an ideal.

Mr. Watson said he lost patience with the popular orator who used to go into the schools and paint pictures of success, usually winding up with the exclamation that he might be looking into the faces of some future president, senator or congressman. Mr. Watson said he always felt like grabbing such a man "by the nap of the neck and the seat of the pants" and throwing him out.

"If every man who has not been president," he continued, "is a failure, with the exception of four or five men, we of one generation are all failures, and I can prove by about half of the people that most of the presidents were failures."

"I want to give you the Hoosier definition of success: find your place and fill it. The man who does that and fills it well is a genuine success, no matter what his station in life may be. There must be a bottom brick as well as a top brick. In fact, I have a faint suspicion that the top brick could not hold its position were it not for the bottom brick."

"Everything does not depend on law-government. Some men do not do right because they have not the courage, but they wait laws passed so they will be compelled to. The individuals make the laws and this government will never rise above the average intelligence of its people."

Sidney London's caricatures and impersonations won instant attention. He depicted Mark Twain, Victor Hugo, Bill Nye and the old man from Posey county, Indiana, who went to Boston to visit his son who was a graduate of Harvard and practicing law. The Hoosier made some quaint remarks about the east.

PUSH THROUGH GERMANS.

(By United Press.)

Petrograd, Jan. 8.—The Russian army moving from the north against the east front was reported to have pushed through the German outer line of trenches and to be slowly gaining ground although the weather continues to be detrimental to any speedy achievements. This is the only point along the battleline where this is any change.

2 RUSS AIRSHIPS TAKEN.

(By United Press.)

Berlin, (By Wireless), Jan. 8.—Announcement that two Russian aircrafts have been shot down and their crews either taken or killed in the Lodz district is made today. It was stated that the Russian aviators have been unusually active the last three days and because of their boldness they have proved easy victims. The general situation in Poland shows little change. Sapping and mining are resulting in slight gains at certain points but on most of the front the bad weather makes it impossible any speedy achievements.
